Daniel Isaza Bonnet, Chief Financial Officer of ISA, is stepping down from his position.

Jaime Falquez Ortega, currently Financial Resources Manager, will take over as Interim Chief Financial Officer.

Daniel Isaza Bonnet, Chief Financial Officer of Interconexión Eléctrica S.A. E.S.P. (ISA), announced his voluntary resignation effective July 18, 2024, to take on new professional challenges abroad. Jaime Falquez Ortega, currently Financial Resources Manager, will take over as Interim Chief Financial Officer.

Jaime has more than 20 years of experience in the area of corporate finance at ISA and its companies, in the positions of head of Financial Planning at Transelca, CFO at Red de Energía del Perú, and Financial Resources Manager at ISA, a position he has held for 13 years.

Throughout his career, Jaime has led financing transactions for more than USD 3.5 billion, including project finance type structures and two financing transactions in the international capital markets (ISA Interchile green bonds for USD 1.2 billion; and ISA international bond for USD 330 million).

For his part, Daniel joined the company since 2018 as CBDO-Chief Business Development Officer, where he led the expansion process and strategic alliances in different sectors and geographies, securing investments of ~USD 4.6 billion, in more than 30 assets and projects in energy transmission, road concessions and digital infrastructure.

Subsequently, in 2023, Daniel took over as Chief Financial Officer, a role in which he achieved several accomplishments such as the ALAS20 award, which recognized ISA as a leader in investor relations. Also, he has led the 2025-2027 financial plan focused on the efficiency of AOM expenses, the optimization of the capital structure to support the strategic challenges for 2030-2040, and the timely and efficient execution of the financing of relevant projects for the expansion of the energy and roads businesses in Latin America.

Under his leadership, the company's financial results were historic. In 2023, net income amounted to COP 2.5 trillion, an increase of 12% over 2022, and EBITDA amounted to COP 9.1 trillion, an increase of 6% over the previous year, generating greater value for shareholders and stakeholders, and strengthening ISA's competitive position in the countries where it operates.

We wish Jaime and Daniel every success in their new challenges. ISA recognizes, values, and appreciates their leadership, human qualities, and professionalism.
